In this advertisement I have marked the times at which letters must be left at the office to insure their going in the Mail of the day. As all letters are to be marked—accounts of them entered in a book, and transcripts of those accounts made out to send to the respective Post-master.

As there are several places of the same name in the United States, the merchants and others are requested to be very particular in the direction of their letters; distinguishing the States, and where it would otherwise be doubtful; the Counties, in which those places are situated. And when letters are not for a Post-town, the nearest Post-town to the place ought to be mentioned.

INSTITUTIONS.

PENNSYLVANIA HOSPITAL,

On which is engrafted by an act of the Legislature,
THE LYING IN HOSPITAL:

The patients to be admitted into this Hospital, are the sick in body or mind, except with contagious diseases; these are admitted from the Hospital Dispensary as out patients.

Forty paupers are allowed to be received at one time, and no more, the funds at present not being sufficient to provide for a larger number; but the charity will be extended to the poor, in proportion to the increase of the capital stock, which can only arise from future legacies or contributions, no tax being assessed on the citizens for the support of this institution.

In the mean time the affluent are received, as pay patients, at 3 to eight dollars a week, according to their circumstances in life, and the profit made by their board is applied with the interest of the capital, to the support of poor patients,

Accidents however, such as fractures, bad bruises, are admitted GRATIS, if brought within 24 hours after they happen, and the doors are to be opened at all hours to receive them.

In all other cases, applications should be made to one of the attending physicians and managers, whose names are published monthly in Poulson's paper. But on the 4th and 7th day of every week, those managers and physicians attend regularly at the hospital from 10 to 12 o'clock in the afternoon, on purpose to receive and discharge patients, where if the applicant applies, it will often save much trouble.

Legacies are usually given in the corporate name, viz. "I give to the Contributors to the Pennsylvania Hospital, and to their successors, &c" Contributions and donations are sent or taken to Treasurer, 25 Dock, between Second and Front streets.

One of the great advantages of the American revolution has been, that it led to a discovery of the principles, and laid open the imposition, of governments. All the revolutions till then had been worked within the atmosphere of a court, and never on the great floor of a nation.

The government of a free country, properly speaking, is not in the persons, but in the laws. The enacting of those requires no great expence; and when they are administered, the whole of civil government is performed—the rest is all court contrivance.

If we examine, with attention, into the compulsion and constitution of man, the diversity of his wants, and the diversity of talents in different men for reciprocally accommodating the wants of each other, his propensity to society, and consequently to preserve the advantages resulting from it, we shall easily discover, that a great part of what is called government, is mere imposition.

It can only be by blinding the understanding of man; and making him believe that government is some wonderful mysterious thing, that excessive revenues are obtained. Monarchy is well calculated to insure this end. It is the popery of government; a thing kept up to amuse the ignorant, and quiet them into taxes.

Government is not a trade which any man or body of men has a right to set up and exercise for his own emolument, but is altogether a trust, in right of those by whom that trust is delegated, and by whom it is always resumable. It has of itself no rights; they are altogether duties.

Government is but now beginning to be known. Hitherto it has been the mere exercise of power, which forbade all effectual enquiry into rights, and grounded itself wholly on possession. While the enemy of liberty was its judge, the progress of its principles must have been small indeed.

Government ought to be as much open to improvement as any thing which appertains to man, instead of which it has been monopolized from age to age, by the most ignorant and vicious of the human race. Need we any other proof of their wretched management, than the excess of debts and taxes with which every nation groans, and the quarrels into which they have precipitated the world?

AUGUST.

If commerce were permitted to act to the universal extent it is capable, it would extirpate the system of war, and produce a revolution in the uncivilized state of governments. The invention of commerce has arisen since those governments began, and is the greatest approach towards universal civilization, that has yet been made by any means not immediately flowing from moral principles.

Whatever has a tendency to promote the civil intercourse of nations, by an exchange of benefits, is a subject as worthy of philosophy as of politics. Commerce is no other than the traffic of two individuals, multiplied on a scale of numbers; and by the same rule that nature intended the intercourse of two, she intended that of all.

Whatever the form or constitution of government may be, it ought to have no other object than the general happiness. When instead of this, it operates to create and increase wretchedness in any of the parts of society, it is on a wrong system, and reformation is necessary.

It is possible that a nation may be the carrier for the world, but she cannot be the merchant. She cannot be the feller and the buyer of her own merchandise. The ability to buy must relide out of herself; and, therefore, the prosperity of any commercial nation is regulated by the prosperity of the rest.

There can be no such thing as a nation flourishing alone in commerce; she can only participate, and the destruction of it in any part must necessarily affect all. When, therefore, governments are at war, the attack is made upon the common stock of commerce, and the consequence is the same as if each had attacked his own.
